

One Day Of Your Life - The division of consciousnesses in time

The moment of perception - Unconscious perceptual configuration

Waking state perceptions are first seen by the unconscious of the and in control of the neural systems of the sensory organs network. A copy is instantly transmitted to the conscious, cognitive mind. A version that may be quite selective or even different depending on unconscious factors.

